TYPE (positive, negative, wall) Positive	DEFINITION (cut in floor of X, fill of pit Y, north wall of room Z, etc.) Dark brown loose soil in E corner of room 38
DESCRIPTION (include consistency, color, composition, inclusions, dimensions; for cuts, also include shape and orientation) Layer of dark brown soil underneath a large stone, left along the southern part of the E wall (wall 257) of room 38, in the 2005 season. The material under the stone was compact from the pressure of the stone but was otherwise easily removed, and filled with pottery and bone. There were no special finds, though there were iron nails.

INTERPRETATION This layer appeared under a large stone, left in the previous season, that was removed along with context 712. When it was removed, the soil beneath was lower, darker brown soil. Although it was assigned a separate context number it is, in fact, the same as context 753. This context is likely part of the Byzantine fill of this area from local dumps.

STRATIGRAPHIC NOTES/DOUBTS (include any comments on methods, contamination, excavation conditions, or anything else that seems relevant) This layer was revealed prematurely on the second day of excavation. Only after bringing the rest of the room down to this level was it clear that it was equal to context 753.

SKETCH

This section includes the "column" of material left beneath the stone and thus material that was left in section by Halo. This material, then, would correspond to the layers of the previous season.
