Dear Matthew Bowser:

Thank you for your generosity in donating specimens/materials to the National Museum. I assure you that the National Collection is properly cared for and accessible to the scientific community. Pursuant to the Smithsonian's collections management policies pertaining to donations, our Department has implemented a policy that all materials accessioned into the National Museum of Natural History must have a Deed of Gift signed by the donor. The attached Deed of Gift form is actually rather simple and is also beneficial to you as a donor. It basically asks if you are giving us the material with no restrictions and if the material truly belongs to you and was acquired legally.

Therefore, in order to process your donation and officially accession it into the National Museum of Natural History, we need you to return two signed copies of this Deed of Gift form to me. After this form is received and signed by the appropriate person here, I will return a copy to you. Also at that time we will complete the accession process and send you a letter of acknowledgment. Please sign and date these forms on the lines indicated (only one signature is necessary for single donors). Again, thank you for your donation and I look forward to receiving the signed Deed of Gift forms from you.

Sincerely,

David G. Furth, Ph.D.
